

Headquarters U.S. Air Force

Integrity - Service - Excellence

Change the Common Item Policy?

Colquitt “Quitty” Lawrence

AF/ILGP

15 March 2004

U.S. AIR FORCE

U.S. AIR FORCE

Current Policy

- Contractor manages only unique parts
- Contract specific to single weapon system
- Initial policy focused on contractor's role as weapon system manager for some programs
- Need to ensure "honest broker" for multiple users
- Existing contracts didn't address multiple users
- Single manager for consumable parts
- Good policy; however, times are changing

U.S. AIR FORCE

Future Policy?

- Should policy be changed?
- Some common items are between two contractor managed systems
 - Same program office
- Logistics reassignment requires support
- What are the issues?
 - Contract language
 - Business rules (repair priorities, release sequence)
 - Intraservice or interservice
- Leave current policy in place